

The light steel villa is much lighter than traditional building of concrete and steel. As such traditional strip foundations are adequate for the light steel villa.

Similarly a cement slab foundation can also be used.

CTH suggestion, depending on the property and lot layout, is to use traditional local strip foundation, bring the blocks out to the desired height above road level, then cast the ground floor, to which the Light Steel keel will be anchored.